New Senior Leader Roles Designed for Agility

American Tire Distributors (ATD) today announced a realignment of its senior leadership team in a move that both reflects the company's evolution to date and accelerates the company's ongoing transformation to becoming the most connected and insightful automotive solutions provider in the industry.

Over the past three years, Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Stuart Schuette has crafted a leadership team balanced by deep industry experience and diverse perspectives brought across industries. All are united by a single factor: ATD's focus on the role of people, not just processes, in driving greater efficiency and better outcomes for its customers and manufacturer partners.

"In an industry that is undergoing transformation, the changes we are announcing today are designed to propel ATD forward and accelerate execution towards our strategy. We're very proud of the team at ATD and the collective talent that has become unique for us in the industry," said Schuette. "Our associates have been essential to sustaining ATD's performance in the face of unprecedented industry change. Together with their teams, they have driven our strategy with excellence and passion."

Owen will continue overseeing ATD's corporate, strategic, customer service and specialty sales teams, in addition to Tire Pros and supply chain operations.

Additionally, Keith will continue overseeing the development of ATD's transformation strategy and the company's project management office, which is focused on driving efficiencies and speed-to-market for strategic initiatives for ATD customers and suppliers.

Ivy Chin Appointed Chief Digital and Technology Officer

Ivy Chin's role as the Chief Digital and Technology Officer is expanding. In this role, Ivy will focus on unifying ATD's technology and digital ecosystems, including the business-to-consumer TireBuyer.com platform. Ivy and her team will continue developing and activating the tools that enable ATD's continued digitization to deliver an unsurpassed, digitally enabled associate and customer experience.
